

Locating Earnings Estimates on the Web

Many investors like to review others estimates of companies future earnings before preparing their own estimates on their Stock Selection Guides (SSG). Below are four URLs where estimates can frequently be found. SSG Preparers should only use these figures as guidance for refining and validating their own judgment. In each case replace the $* in the URL with the lower case ticker symbol of the company that interests you. If you are using Toolkit you the URLs are in proper format for favorites under the Web icon. Additional sites exist, but this is a good representation.
